After this transfer and the choice-of-slam bid of five notrumps, West leads the ten of hearts to dummy's king, East playing the five. Once both opponent follow to the first round of trumps, what is the best plan for gathering twelve tricks?

Nowhere To Run, Nowhere To Hide

Jane Skipper, New Zealand

The New Zealand Youth squad has been in Canberra for a week already, playing pairs, teams and a test match against Australian Youth players.

Their first taste of Australian Open bridge was the Swiss Pairs on Sunday. In match 7, Daniel and David Skipper, of the NZ Youth squad, found that their opponents don't hold back with their weak 2 suited opening bids.

South played 3H doubled and, when the smoke cleared, the penalty was 1400. The datum was 300EW, so the board was worth 1100 or +15 imps

It must be a rare auction where one side gets to double all four suits for penalties.

4 – 8-10 with 4 spades, denies 4 hearts

5 – RKCB

6 – 1 keycard

7 – missing a major Ace and with no information about the ♦K, 30-32 points with a poor fit!

Why bother to investigate a club slam which will protect the major Kings from an unfriendly lead, when there is the distinct advantage of partner playing a dreadful contract rather than me!

After the lead of the 4 of clubs, it is clear that the only hope is to develop the diamonds without surrendering a trick. As singleton Kings are very rare, the only chance is to find West with Kx.

Unfortunately, because of the blockage in diamonds, two entries are needed to South's hand – one to take the finesse and one to enjoy the diamonds. The potential second entries to South the Queen of hearts and the 9 of clubs. The chances of the Ace of hearts being with East are about 50% (slightly more if we give West long clubs). However, if he is long in clubs then the chance of the 10 being one of them is over 80%.

Conventionally Speaking

Ron Klinger gave me this one as an example of the benefits of 5 Card Stayman.

Often with ample values for game facing a no trump opener, we tend (particularly at matchpoints) to opt for the 9 trick game. Sometimes this is right and sometimes wrong. Ron is an advocate of including 5 card majors in your 1NT opening and then you have available the benefits of 5 Card Stayman.

On the hand above, the auction would be:

| | | | |
|-----|-------------------|----|-----------------------------|
| 2C | 5 card Stayman | 2D | 1NT |
| 3C | Any 4 card major? | 2H | No 5 card major |
| | | 3H | Yes + a doubleton somewhere |
| 3NT | I have 4 spades | 4S | |

Now switch the 4 of hearts for the 4 of clubs. The new auction is

| | | | |
|-----|-------------------|----|------------------|
| 2C | 5 card Stayman | 2D | 1NT |
| 3C | Any 4 card major? | 2H | No 5 card major |
| | | 3D | My shape is 4333 |
| 3NT | | | |

The flat hand should play better in no trumps, while the doubleton makes a suit game preferable.

The ideas of 5 Card Stayman are expounded fully in Ron's book "5 Card Major Stayman" published by Modern Bridge and available from the book shops at both venues.

The Antipodean Guardian Angel

The Rueful Rabbit is, perhaps, the most famous figure in bridge literature. His trademark was to make a totally egregious error and have his Guardian Angel intervene to turn the error into a master bid or play.

It is less well known that there is a cadet branch of the Rabbit family in New Zealand. Just watch RR's antipodean cousin, Barry (the Bemused Bunny) Jones go to work.

Patrick Carter had shown his total lack of judgement by allowing BB to get to the helm in 3NT. South led the Jack of spades. The bemused one gave this some thought (story 1) or tried to remember whether he'd switched off the oven before leaving NZ (story 2). Eventually, he called for the King of spades. Shortly thereafter he started a progressive blush as he contributed the Queen from hand. A moment ago, he had had 8 tricks and a small heart towards dummy would very probably have yielded number 9. Now he had 7 and could hardly hope to sneak through 2 rounds of hearts and then there was the club suit...

Nonetheless, there wasn't anywhere else to go for honey so he pushed out a heart. South scored his Ace and, secure in the knowledge that he only had to clear one spade stop, continued that suit.

The Bemused Bunny was last heard claiming that BB actually stands for the Bacon Behemoth, that he is a cadet member of the Hideous Hog family and that the King of spades was a play of suitably hoggish subtlety.

But some of us know the truth.

Tim Bourke's Problem

SOLUTION

All you need to do is play the minor suits for one loser. So, a good approach is to take the club finesse and, if that loses, to fall back on the diamond finesse.

However, there is a subtle extra chance that improves your chances of success. After drawing two rounds of trumps with the ace and king, you should cash the ace of hearts. Unless the queen of hearts has fallen, you will cross back to hand with the queen of trumps to ruff the jack of hearts. Next you play the ace of diamonds and lead a second diamond, planning to finesse East for the queen of diamonds.

If East has the queen of diamonds, you will have twelve tricks immediately. The same is true if West has a singleton queen of diamonds. What may not be immediately apparent is that this also the case when West has a doubleton queen of diamonds, as here:

| | | |
|--------------|-------------|------------|
| ♠ 9 2 | ♠ K J 8 4 3 | ♠ 10 6 |
| ♥ 10 9 8 3 2 | ♥ A K | ♥ Q 6 5 |
| ♦ Q 7 | ♦ A 6 3 | ♦ 10 9 8 4 |
| ♣ K 6 5 2 | ♣ Q J 7 | ♣ 9 8 4 3 |
| | ♠ A Q 7 5 | |
| | ♥ J 7 4 | |
| | ♦ K J 5 2 | |
| | ♣ A 10 | |

On this layout when West wins the queen of diamonds he will have only hearts and clubs remaining. If he exits with a club, you will make five trumps, two hearts, three diamonds and two clubs. On a heart return you will ruff in dummy and discard the ten of clubs from hand. In this case you will make four trump tricks, two hearts, three diamonds, a club and two ruffs in dummy.

As this plan succeeds when East has one of the missing minor suit honours or, as here, when West has a doubleton queen of diamonds. Playing this way gives a little more than a 5% edge over just taking both finesses in the minors.

Playing Carefully

A neat line from declarer saw a slam come home on this one from the second round of the Teams.

New Zealand Seniors international Bob Scott was in 6H from North after East had made a jump intervention in spades.

East led his singleton diamond and dummy took the trick. Bob now drew 2 rounds of trumps only. He then cashed 2 more rounds of diamonds and ruffed a spade into hand. He now ruffed the fourth diamond with dummy's last trump and led a club towards his Queen. West took the defence's only trick with the King and Bob could claim.

The lead is the Queen of spades. Do you duck? If so, next comes the 10 of spades. If you duck again, out comes a small spade. Surely a third duck will collect North's Ace.

Wrong. Jimmy Wallis had led from A Q !0 6 and 3 ducks made for a red-faced declarer.

From another Swiss match, try your hand on the lead. You, West, hold :

At the table, the Queen of hearts lead led to a very palatable +1400 for both Ralph

And another from round 3.

You, East, hold:

♠ K 10 6 5 3 ♥ Q 6 ♦ 10 8 5 3 2 ♣ K

Your methods require you to open 2S (spades + a minor) and South doubles. North bids 3H which shows values as the opponents play Lebensohl in this situation. South bids 3S (a general purpose cue) and North 4C. South now shoots to 6H and it's your lead.

Did you find the King of clubs?

South was playing 3NT and Nigel had to lead from West. He decided on a club and, not being familiar with the method, selected the 3.

The club decision was excellent, the rank of card less so. Dummy played the 7 and Andy, as we all would, played the 9.

If you look carefully at the remaining spots, you will see that there is now no way in which Nigel can unblock the suit.
