When the dust settled on the SWPT for 2009, the Thomson team had a full match (and a bit) to spare over the second placed Marston team with Leibowitz third though equal with Marston on VPs. Thomson lost only one match, to Marston, and that by only 14-16. They averaged over 20VP's per match.

The last day saw some major changes as close to fifty teams scrapped for the twenty NOT places. Big winners on the day were Markey who moved from a distant 37th to 11th. Big losers were the Rew team who dropped from a comfortable eighth to 31st – 10VPs off the cut-off.

Danger signs for the rest of the field came from number one seeds, Irens, who picked up 37 VPs on the day to advance to sixth. The "Punching Above Their Weight Award" will surely go to Fleisher who exceeded their seeding by a mere 40 places and who qualified in a very comfortable eighth position.

The "I've Got A Rabbit's Foot In My Pocket Award" goes to the Haughie team who took an absolute bath in the last round which saw them drop from 4th to a non-qualifying 21st. A subsequent appeal let them into the NOT field in last spot.

After partner's leap to four spades, the least you could do was to bid six hearts. How do you plan to make twelve tricks after West leads the two of diamonds, an obvious singleton?

Tim Bourke's Problem – Solution

You can make twelve tricks whenever West holds the ace of spades, which is about as certain as one can get at the given vulnerability. After winning the diamond lead with the ace, you just draw the trumps, discarding diamonds from the table. The only way to make twelve tricks is to utilise dummy's spade suit, despite the fact that there appears to be only one (club) entry to the dummy. One possibility is to seek a second club entry to dummy by leading the two of clubs, intending to finesse dummy ten. This would rely on luck, since you would need West to hold the jack of clubs. In any case, in this column an alert West would always spoil your plan by inserting the jack of clubs. Suppose the full deal is:

♠ K Q J 10 2
♥ 7 2
♦ 6 5 4
♣ K 10 9
♠ A 9 8 7 5	♠ 6 4 3
♥ 9 5 4	♥ 8
♦ 2	♦ K Q J 10 8 7
♣ 8 7 5 3	♣ J 6 4
♥ A K Q J 10 6 3
♦ A 9 3
♣ A Q 2

The above plan would be disastrous here as East would win the jack of clubs and cash a couple of diamonds. In fact there is no need to rely on such a dubious approach. You should lead the queen of clubs and overtake it with dummy's king. You then play the king of spades, discarding a diamond. West wins with the spade ace and has no good return. A spade will give the lead to dummy, allowing you to throw a diamond and club. Similarly, a club exit will promote the 10-9 of clubs into an entry, no matter who holds the jack of clubs

Close Decisions

While watching Richard Brightling and Ian Thomson play Bill Jacobs and Ben Thompson in round thirteen, a number of bidding decisions caught the eye. I offer them to you for your decision and then I'll present some expert opinion.

1) Vulnerable, you hold

♠ AJ 9 8 3 ♥ K 8 ♦ K Q 5 3 ♣ 9 7

The auction develops:

You	North	East	South
			P
1♠	P	2NT	3♣
4♠	5♣	5♦	P

Partner's 2NT showed a game raise or better in spades. Your move?

- Expert opinion was expressed by Seamus Browne and Andy Braithwaite. Neither was terribly enthusiastic but, after some thought, both will make a move towards slam.

At the table West certainly did this – he bid 6♠. This depended simply on the trump position which was unkind.

3	♠ K72	Dir: S
	♥ 965	Vul: E-W
	♦ 64
	♣ KJ632
♠ AJ983	♠ QT65
♥ K8	♥ AT7432
♦ KQ53	♦ A9
♣ 97	♣ 5
7	♠ 4	<table border="1" style="font-size: 0.8em;"> <tr><th>♣</th><th>♦</th><th>♥</th><th>♠</th><th>NT</th></tr> <tr><td>N</td><td>2</td><td>-</td><td>-</td><td>-</td></tr> <tr><td>S</td><td>2</td><td>-</td><td>-</td><td>-</td></tr> <tr><td>E</td><td>-</td><td>1</td><td>5</td><td>5</td></tr> <tr><td>W</td><td>-</td><td>1</td><td>5</td><td>5</td></tr> </table>	♣	♦	♥	♠	NT	N	2	-	-	-	S	2	-	-	-	E	-	1	5	5	W	-	1	5	5

E	-	1	5	5
W	-	1	5	5
13	♥ QJ
10	♦ JT872
10	♣ AQT84

It looks to this very inexperienced observer that East was quite pushy with his "game raise or better" and, perhaps, a 50% slam going off was just.

2) Not vul, you hold

♠ K J 7 6 4 3 ♥ A 10 4 ♦ K 5 3 ♣ 9

The auction commences

West	North	East	You
		P	1♠
x	xx	2♦	P
P	2♠	P	?

Well, are you worth a move towards game? Andy and Seamus diverge. Andy comments that it is not vul. so he's only paying 6 imps if he gets it wrong and the opposition get it right. So Andy passes. Seamus, however, is prepared to make one (small) effort with a 3♦ trial bid. This seems about right and probably a little more co-operative than the 3♠ bid found at the table. 3♠ was where it petered out but ten tricks were not difficult to arrange on

6		♠ T82	Dir: E
		♥ KQ5	Vul: E-W
		♦ Q72
		♣ K852
♠ A95		♠ Q

♣ AQJT		♣ 7643
10	♠ KJ7643	♣♦♥♠NT
16	♥ AT4	N - - 1 4 2
11	♦ K53	S - 1 1 4 2
	♣ 9	E 1 - - - -
		W 1 - - - -

when a spade towards hand exposed the Queen.

If you put aside the North/South hands and shuffle up the remaining 26, it looks like 4♠ will go off more often than not. So, Andy's conservatism and the small efforts made by Seamus and at the table will pay off against the 4♠ punters in the long run. In the short run, the punters are laughing all the way to the bank.

3) At unfavourable vulnerability, you hold

♠ A Q 10 8 ♥ J 10 4 ♦ J 8 4 ♣ Q 7 2

and watch the bidding develop

You	North	East	South
	3♣	x	4♣
x	P	5♥	P

And you?

Seamus and Andy (Shouldn't that be Amos and Andy? Or is that two other comedians?) agree here. The only divergence is the order in which they express their three reasons for not moving on:

- i) I have no more than I have already promised
- ii) My flat shape offers no hope of a ruff
- iii) My ♠Q is useless

And so it proved:

9		♠ J32	Dir: N
		♥ 76	Vul: E-W
		♦ T3
		♣ AKJ865
♠ AQT8		♠ K6

3	♦ K92	S 1 - - - -
	♣ 943	E - 5 5 5 1
		W - 5 5 5 4

West clocked off in 5♥ and made eleven tricks with the obvious minor suit losers. It is almost a truism that good players don't bid their hands twice and the first point made by Andy and Seamus is worth noticing.

4) ♠ K Q 8 6 ♥ Q J 5 2 ♦ K ♣ 9 7 5 3

It's all vul and the bidding is

West	You	East	South
		1♦	P
P	x	P	2NT

Your decision.?

The lesson from hand 3 might not have been wasted on North at the table on this one

10	♠ KQ86	Dir: E

	♦ A863	S 3 - 2 1 1
11	♣ QJT6	E - 1 - - -
		W - 1 - - -

Seamus had been called away by this time but Adam Sarten kindly stepped into the breach.

Both he and Andy looked at me as if I were some kind of a loony when I posed this question. This is not a new experience for ex-kiwi Andy but Adam is more polite. I hastened to explain that it was not my idea that anything other than the fastest pass in bridge history was a possibility. When I watched at the table, North amazed me by raising to game. I'm still trying to work out which of his munificent values he had left in the bank when he doubled.

Two off seemed a fitting reward.

5) ♠ K 10 3 ♥ Q 5 ♦ K 9 6 5 ♣ A 4 3 2

All vul and the bidding commences

West	North	East	You
	1♥	P	2♣
P	2♠	P	2NT
P	3♠	P	?

Are you worth a slam try?

Adam and Andy are firmly in the "yes" camp.

They both point to what they, individually, describe as three huge cards – the ♠K – to help the trumps, the ♥Q to assist in partner's six card suit and ♣A – well tricks aren't bad, are they?

At the table, South just bid 4♠ and was (justly??) rewarded when the layout was

13	♠ AQ654	Dir: N
	♥ AKT743	Vul: Both
	♦ Q
	♣ 7
♠ J987	♠ 2

	♦ K965	S - - 4 5 2
12	♣ A432	E - 1 - - -
		W - 1 - - -

There was no way to negotiate the spade position for twelve tricks but wouldn't you want to be there more often than not?

The Thomson team only lost one match in the SWPT. Here, Nye Griffiths and Justin Williams experience unaccustomed defeat against Paul Marston (left) and Stephen Burgess

6) Nil vulnerability, your hand is

♠ K Q 10 ♥ J 10 4 ♦ K J 4 ♣ K Q 8 6

West	You	East	South
		P	2♥
P	2NT	P	3♥
P	?

Partner has shown a good six card heart suit and no short suit. So you?

Adam and Andy both cast wistful looks in the direction of 3NT. Both, however, are not tempted in the end. They express concern that the defence may be able to get a suit going while they establish tricks by clearing all those missing Aces. Both are very concerned about the effect of a diamond to the Ace and diamond return against 3NT, so they opt for 4♥ with Adam describing it as “the mainstream view.” The same “mainstream view” was taken at the table on

Super Science Sometimes Satisfies

Richard Hills

As a general rule, it is best to take a KISS (Keep It Simple Stupid) approach to the bidding. However, every rule has its exceptions (including this one). The team captained by Tom Kiss took a non-KISS approach to the bidding on board 7 of match 12 in the South West Pacific Teams to pick up 12 imps.

At the other table, the opponents had a traditional KISS auction. South passed as dealer. North opened 2C, artificial and very strong.

South bid 2D as a waiting bid, with the intent of maximising investigatory bidding space. Alas, to describe 25-26 hcp balanced North was forced to gobble up huge amounts of bidding space by jumping to 3NT. So with no bidding space available to investigate sensibly the grand slam, South signed off in 6NT.

Meanwhile, at my table, the extremely non-KISS Symmetric Relay system used by Hashmat Ali and myself is predicated on maximum effectiveness in use of bidding space.

- (1) 15+ hcp, any shape
- (2) 8+ hcp, 2+ controls (A=2, K=1), exactly four clubs, five or more diamonds, and a singleton or void in spades
- (3) Relay, asking partner to describe his hand further
- (4) Precisely 1-3-5-4 shape
- (5) Precisely 3 controls
- (6) One advantage of playing a non-KISS relay system is that you can plan the play in the bidding. I could count 12 top tricks in no trumps, but in diamonds I could count 13 tricks via a club ruff by North.

Peter Wilsmore and Anita Mathers brought their four month old daughter, Alexis, in to the venue on Sunday and she was very interested in the Bulletin. Peter had played on Saturday in the Mens' Pairs with John de Ravin, so maybe she wanted to discuss where they went wrong and why they didn't make the top three?

But It Was Only An Overtrick

It seems a shame to waste a squeeze on overtrick at teams but, sometimes, that's the way it is.

Josh Sher produced this one in the last round

Josh played 4NT and received the lead of the ♦10. He took this on table and played the ♣10 to West's Jack and his own King. He cashed the ♣A and continued with a small club to East's Queen.

The ♠2 was returned to the King and the ♦K and ♦Q were cashed. Josh now cashed the ♣8 to bring about Josh played his last club and East could feel the noose tightening. If East discards a spade then when Josh crosses to the ♠A and cashes the ♦A, East will be squeezed in the majors.

At the table, East discarded a heart on the last club but Josh continued with a spade to the Ace and cashed the ♦A. He then picked the endgame accurately by playing a heart to the Ace to drop East's Queen.

The Count Coup

Ishamel Delmonte was taken aback by this one from round 13 on which an opponent studiously played a count card and conceded a trick by so doing.

19	♠ 8763	Dir: S
	♥ 72	Vul: E-W
	♦ J953
	♣ AJ8
♠ AJ52	♠ KQT4

14	♦ A7	S 3 1 3 - 1
	♣ K742	E - - - 1 -
		W - - - 1 -

Ishmael and Murray Green both took fairly aggressive actions in the auction to drive to the heart game.

West led the ♦8 which Ish covered with the 9. East played his Queen and Ish took the trick. He immediately returned diamonds and, when West played his King, East gave reverse count with the 6!

Ish now had the two boss diamonds and no longer needed to pick the club situation.

Ish points out that this play will enable him to deal with four hearts to the Queen and Jack in the East hand, provided, of course, that he picks it.

The situation would be:

West takes his ♦K and cashes the Ace of spades. A second spade is ruffed by declarer who then plays the Ace of trumps. He notes West's 10 with suspicion and with eight tricks to go the position would be:

	♠ 8 7
	♥ 7
	♦ J 5
	♣ A J 8
♠ J 10 5	W	♠ Q
♥	N	♥ Q J 4
♦ 10	E	♦ 4 2
♣ 10 6 5 3	S	♣ Q 9
	♥ K 9 8 6
	♣ K 7 4 2

Declarer cashes the ♣K and crosses to the Ace of clubs. He now cashes the two good diamonds, pitching clubs from hand. A spade is ruffed and the last three cards in the East and South hands are all trumps:

♥ Q J 4

♥ K 9 8

An exit with the ♥ sees East's second heart trick disappear.

Ish's team-mate, Sartaj Hans, was annoyed with himself when he let a game through after Tony Nunn had created the opportunity to defeat it. (Incidentally, it was Sartaj, himself, he gave me this story.)

9	♠ KJ832	Dir: N
	♥ J98	Vul: E-W
	♦ J4

♠ Q6	♠ AT754

13	♦ AK98	S 1 2 4 1 3
	♣ 732	E - - - -
		W - - - -

North was playing 3NT after a typically convoluted relay auction. Sartaj led the ♦2 which declarer ducked to Tony's Queen. Tony advanced the ♣K and declarer, once again played low from both hands. Tony continued with the ♠Q. Declarer covered and Sartaj was at the crossroads. In practice, he covered and declarer recovered from his earlier error to make nine tricks.

Had Sartaj ducked then declarer has no play. He cannot make nine tricks without giving Tony the ♥K and, as soon as he does, Tony will play another spade catching the jack in the jaws of Sartaj's A 10.

The Impossible Ruff

An exclusive report from the Twilight Zone

TZ habitué, Michael Ware, went looking for a safe exit but, instead, found an impossible ruff on board one of the last round of the SWPT but, in the Twilight Zone, nothing is impossible.

Michael and his partner, Matthew McManus play a homegrown HUM called Crunch!

After a pass from West, Matthew opened 1♥ which showed 7-10 hcp, any shape.

When the opponents had arrived at the table, Michael had offered them the recommended defence to Crunch! which includes inter alia 1♠ over a 1♥ opener as being natural and an opening hand.

Michael, who was contemplating

♠ A K 10 6 3 ♥ J 7 6 5 ♦ A 10 4 2 ♣

passed to await developments. West bid 1NT and East tried again with 2♣. West corrected to 2♠ and this came back to Michael. Unable to restrain himself any longer, Michael reached for the red card. Nobody moved so Michael was on lead.

He led a small heart and Matthew took the Ace to return a heart. Declarer took this and played the ♦K which Michael took with the Ace.

Dummy now showed:

♠ J 9 7 ♥ Q ♦ 9 5 ♣ K Q 9 6

Clearly, Matthew didn't have much more to contribute except in diamonds. As declarer and Michael each had five trumps and dummy had three, Matthew must be void. The best hope was to get declarer trying to draw trumps and then Michael could get the diamonds going to tap declarer.

Michael exited a heart to dummy's Queen and ...Matthew's ruff. The layout actually was

1		♠ 4	Dir: N
		♥ A2	Vul:
		♦ QJ876
		♣ JT532
♠ J97			♠ Q852
♥ QT3			♥ K984

12	♦ AT42		S - 5 1 2 2
	♣		E 1 - - -
			W 1 - - -

Matthew continued with a diamond which declarer ruffed. A club came next for Michael to ruff. He played three rounds of trumps but had the last one in his own hand with which to ruff a club and access Matthew's diamonds.

800 was very adequate compensation for the makeable 5♦ which, in the real world, isn't going to be bid anyway.

Only a denizen of the TZ can explain why East chose to bid a spade in the first place and why no-one ran to 3♣ in the second.

If anyone has found a gold Sheaffer ballpoint, probably on Thursday afternoon or evening, I should be most grateful if it were returned to the Festival desk.

Optimistically
