Tim Bourke's Problem – Solution

You have eleven top tricks and while the twelfth trick could come from the diamond suit, it is better to try play on clubs first. If you can establish a long card in clubs, that will be your twelfth trick. You hope the full deal is similar to this one:

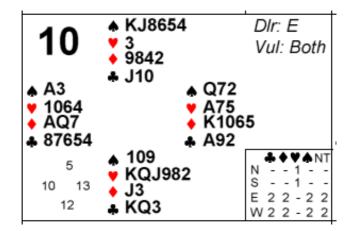

As there are only three entries to dummy, you must win the trump lead in your hand, with the ten. Next you will cash the ace of clubs and ruff a club with the jack of trumps. After re-entering dummy by overtaking the eight of trumps with the nine, you will ruff another low club. On the above layout both defenders will follow to this trick, marking the clubs as breaking 4-3. All that will remain to be done is to draw the remaining trumps, cash the king of hearts then overtake the queen of hearts with the ace. You will be able to discard three diamonds: one on the jack of hearts, a second on the king of clubs and the third on the long club.

If clubs did not be do not divide 4-3, then, as long as spades were 3-2, you would still have a chance to make a twelfth trick from the diamond suit.

Swiss Match 6

The first board of the match was one of those hands where you really don't want to win the auction. The result sheet was dominated by -100's with a good number of -200's and a fair sprinkling of 3's, 5's and 8's.

Playing against Ishmael Del Monte and Justin Williams (East) were NZ Youth players, Pieter Vanderpoel and David Skipper. Justin opened 1 and David jumped to 2, which closed the auction.

Ish cashed the A and then the A, followed by the Q. David ruffed the third diamond and led the K to Justin's Ace. Justin played the K which meant that Ish's 10 must now take a trick – either immediately, as was the case when David ruffed with the 9, or later if David ruffs high. There was still the A to come for the defence.

The next saw Ish make two doubles. The first could have been very expensive but the second had a small, but satisfactory, payout.

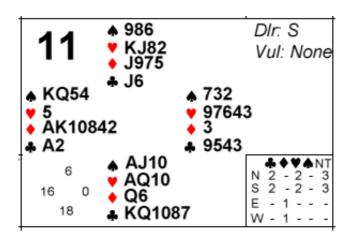

The auction commenced:

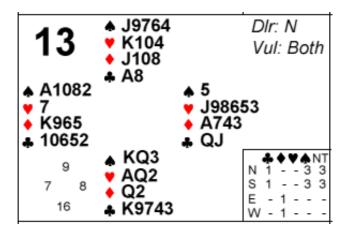

West	North	East	South
			1  ♣
1♦	Х	Р	1♥
1≜	Р	Р	2NT

At this point Ish doubled which was passed back to David, South. As can be seen, DeepFInesse makes 9 tricks and, with North holding a double diamond stop, it's hard to see the defence prevailing. Understandably, David was concerned about his diamond stop and took out to 3. Again, Ish reached for the red card.

Ish led his singleton heart, taken in the closed hand. David broached trumps. Ish took the Ace, cashed the A and gave Justin a diamond ruff. Justin returned the compliment in hearts and the defence still had a spade to come for one off.

Meanwhile, at table 1, Michael Ware and Sartaj Hans had apparently taken up permanent residence in the North-South seats.

were opposed by NZ husband and wife pair, Steve Boughey and Carol Richardson.

Carol opened the East cards with a multi 2 and Sartaj overcalled 2NT. Michael transferred and Sartaj declared 4. A heart was led and Sartaj took the King on dummy as this exposes Steve's lead as a singleton. If he takes the trick in hand, it leaves the possibility that Steve has led from 72 doubleton. Declarer will then suffer two diamond losers to go with the A and the heart ruff. To make matters worse, playing the King enables Carol to play the Jack as a suit preference for diamonds. It was early in the morning so that opportunity was missed Then the ♠A was taken on the first round while a duck would have enabled Carol to show diamond preference on the second. Steve guessed wrong and exited a club. South was able to draw trumps and set up a diamond for the tenth trick.

Lerida Estate and Lake George Wineries

Book at the Summer Festival of Bridge Information Desk for a trip to these wineries – cost $20.

Bus leaves from Rydges at 4.00 pm on Tuesday 21 January and returns approximately 5.30 pm.

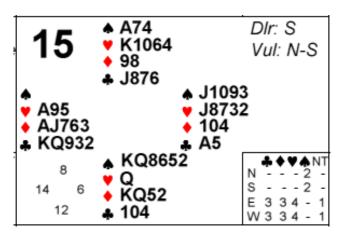

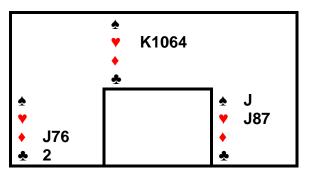

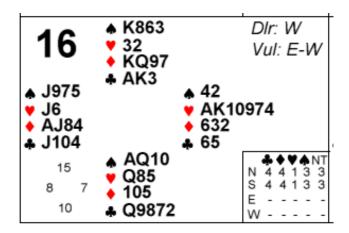

Then Carol showed that she can match DeepFinesse.

She declared 4♥x as East. The ♠K was led – ruffed in dummy. Three rounds of clubs followed, declarer pitching a diamond. South ruffed with the Queen – a fairly obvious singleton. A spade was continued, ruffed with the 9. A club was ruffed into the closed hand and she now played a diamond to the Ace and ruffed a diamond. A spade was ruffed with the Ace to leave

The small club was led and North was dead. He ruffed low, was over-ruffed and the spade continuation meant that Carol scored trick 13 with the ♥J.

Michael, North, declared 3NT. He was not happy when a small heart was led and dummy was exposed. Still, he didn't really have any choice and played a resigned Queen... and the sun came out.

Pieter Vanderpoel also played 3NT from North but received the lead of a rather insidious ♥10. Hoping to pull a high honour from West, he played small ... and the sun went behind a large black cloud.

NOTICE TO PLAYERS

Each player must have an ABF convention card filled out and on the table. Please note that other types of convention cards, such as the WBF convention card or homemade cards that do not sufficiently resemble the ABF convention card, are not acceptable substitutes. System cards can be obtained from the SFOB Information Desk on the mezzanine floor.

SLOW PLAY

Slow play, as opposed to careful or thoughtful play, is discourteous to your opponents – and to all other competitors as well. Players and pairs who take more than their allotted time are subject to penalty. In general, pairs who are rarely late will be warned while pairs who are habitually tardy and/or pay no attention to time limits will be penalised.

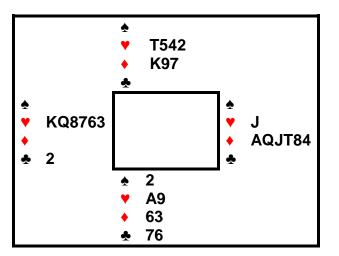

Sartaj played 2♠ from South and received what appears to be the defence's best shot of a trump lead. He won that and played the ♣10. Steve took that to play another trump. Sartaj again exited in clubs – the Queen losing to the Ace, dummy not ruffing but throwing a diamond. The defence completed the trump drawing process and then the ♣9 lost to the King, which left

West exited with the ♣2. It was clear from the auction and his failure to play the suit that East has a diamond void and so has only hearts left..

South had made 3 tricks and needed 5 more but only has 4 on view. Sartaj was able to cash the last club and the ♥A and force Steve to concede the ♥10 as the contract maker. Alternatively, Sartaj could have exited with a diamond to the 7 and force Carol to concede a trick to the  $\diamond$ K.

Two Interesting Defences

Pieter Vanderpoel

East opened a weak no trump and this became the contract.

A spade lead collected the Jack, Queen and Ace. A heart to the Queen was ducked by both defenders as they gave count. The 2 of clubs was led to declarer's 8 and David Skipper's Queen. David continued the K, taken by declarer with the Ace.

A second heart was taken by David with the King and he continued the suit to my Ace.

Two interesting defences now present themselves.

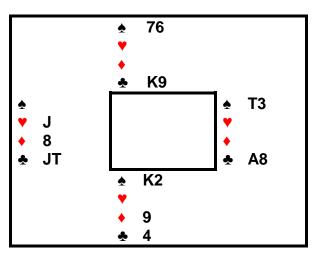

An app is available for download on your Iphone, Ipad or android. This will give you ready access to scores bulletins, restaurants etc.

The correct defence:

I should cash the +J and play a spade through to the 8 and 9. David can now cash the +Q to leave

The ♦9 now squeezes declarer for 3 light – if he discards a club, he is thrown in with the Ace and must lose both spade tricks, while a spade discard sets up those tricks immediately.

The actual defence:

I erred by playing a spade to the 8 and 9 without cashing the diamond first. David didn't know where the +J was and so played +K and another spade, leaving

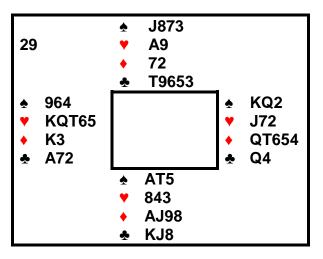

When declarer played the •5, David accurately rose with the Queen to perform a Crocodile Coup, swallowing my Jack and preventing me from being endplayed.

Interesting Times

"May you live in interesting times" is purported to be an old Chinese curse. Whatever the truth of this, there were certainly some "interesting times" at a VERY low numbered table in the eighth round of the Swiss. Consider:

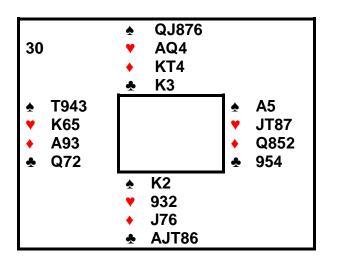

East played 1NT. South led a diamond and the 10 scored. If declarer now plays a heart, leaving the A on table as an entry to the long hearts, the defence will be hard pressed to prevail.

However, declarer played back a diamond and South's Ace squashed the King. A Merrimac Coup must have been tempting now – lead the ♣K and if North holds up the ♥A for two rounds then the long hearts are dead – not quite good enough as declarer will still make one spade, two hearts, two diamonds and two clubs.

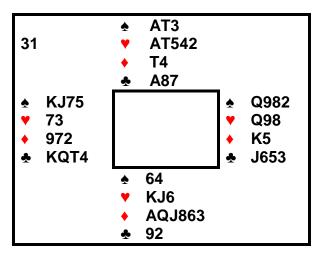

However, South switched to a spade from the AT5 and declarer made on overtrick.

Against 3NT by North, the defence started with three rounds of diamonds – declarer taking the last with the King. A spade was played to dummy's King and a spade back to the Queen and Ace. The last diamond was cashed and a heart played to the King and Ace. Declarer was now without recourse. A better plan at trick 4 might have been to finesse in clubs – even if it loses, the King can later be overtaken for four club tricks.

With the  $\mathbf{A}$ K in the pocket, it seems hard to make less than eleven tricks in hearts. However, declarer tried hard to go down in 4.

The ♠8 was led to the Jack and Ace. The ♦10 passed around succesfully and declarer now played a strange looking ♣A – presumably hoping to ruff a club and a spade in dummy. However, entries back to hand are not adequate – the first club should surely have been ducked all round. Declarer played a second club and the defence played two rounds of spades, dummy ruffing the second. The trump King was cashed and the ♠A dropped East's King. Declarer was still not home!

He "cashed" the +J but East ruffed to play a club, ruffed by declarer. The trump Ace rather luckily dropped the Queen and that was 10 tricks.

Finally the pièce de résistance:

North played 1NT. East led the ♠Q and West did not unblock! A second spade was led to the King and North did not duck!

With three heart tricks and a spade, declarer needs three club tricks – not too hard to arrange you might think. But no, a diamond was played towards the Jack and East ducked, blocking the suit for the defence. West took the diamond and played a diamond back to East's Ace. He could now cash three spade tricks, the last of which squeezed West in three suits as he held ▲ - ♥JT43 ♦K ♣Q8 – making 1NT.

A Word From The Winners

Sartaj Hans and Michael Ware spent so long as North-South at table 1 in the Swiss that they were probably entitled to squatters rights. Sartaj gave me this hand which goes some way to explaining their permanent residents status.

Michael was declaring 3NT from East and received the lead of a small diamond. Dummy's queen won and Michael played a club to the Queen and a club to the Ace, getting the bad news when North discarded. However, Michael had seen South lead from diamond length and now show up with four clubs. Accordingly, he cashed the AK and then finessed the 10 to give himself four spades, a heart, a diamond and three clubs.

This one saw an interesting (!) auction from the latter stages of the Swiss starring Andrew Mill and Andrew Hedegus, Ross Harper and Jonathan Free.

Scanning the result sheet, few pairs managed to reach 6♠. The Andrews did but

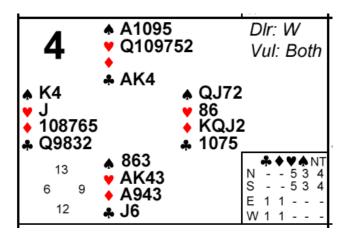

West	North	East	South
1♦	2♣	Х	3♣
6♠	7 ≜	Р	Р
х

And the Andrews collected 1 imp against the datum.

The Seniors' Final

At the half way point of the final, the Neill team had a healthy 111-53 lead over Robinson. The next 16 boards saw the beginning of the Robinson fight back.

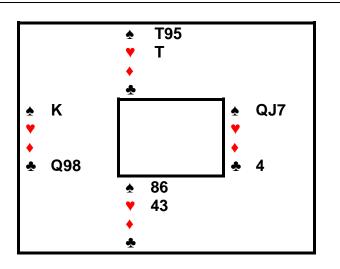

Board 1 was a small pickup for Neill when Hinge/Morrison played 6NT while Brightling/Hoffman made 6. Another slam hand saw both declarers, Hinge and Brightling find the endplay to succeed.

Hinge received the lead of the  $\bullet$ K. He took this and made the key play immediately – he cashed the  $\bullet$ A. He drew trumps, ruffing out the diamond suit on the way and then cashed his two high clubs and ruffed a club to bring about:

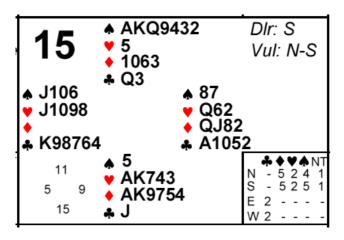

He exited with a spade and, when Ewart could only return a club, the ruff/sluff saw declarer home. Hinge's spade play at trick two was critical. Any later in the hand and surely Ewart would have seen the danger and dropped his King under the Ace.

Brightling got the lead of the ♠Q which probably made it a little easier for him to follow a similar line.

Hinge was not so lucky with his next slam venture:

Unsurprisingly in view of the misfit, there was a pretty long auction as Hinge kept repeating spades and Morrison kept bidding red suits. Eventually Morrison raised  $4 \pm$  to 5 and that propelled Hinge to 6.

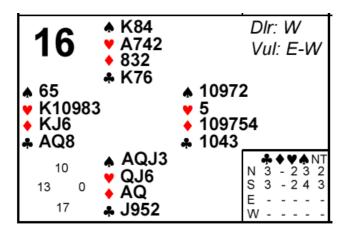

Ewart doubled – obviously Lightner. Braithwaite led an obedient diamond – the

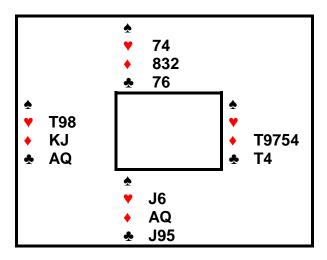

2. Ewart ruffed and returned an obedient club. A second diamond ruff was three off while Hoffman brought home 5♦ in the other room.

The set closed with Brightling and Hinge again applying the screws to West.

Declaring 3NT after West had opened 1♥, Brightling received the lead of a heart to the Queen, King and Ace. He successfully finessed in spades and played a club to the King, followed by three more rounds of spades. To produce ♥J and a second heart meant the defence could take two hearts and two clubs but that gave declarer 9 tricks. Hinge's line was virtually identical.
